4. REGULATIONS APPLYING TO SCHOOL FEES

- In terms of section 40 of SASA, biological parents or legal guardians have a legal obligation to pay school fees. This is a statutory debt and must be met by biological parents or legal guardian. The Act does not distinguish between married, divorced or single biological parents, nor whether a learner resides with one, both or neither parent. Unless a learner has only one living parent, both biological parents' income must be taken into account when an application for exemption is considered.
- Guardians replace biological parents only where there has been a legal agreement. Parents of learners who reside with extended family members are still liable for the fees as the biological parent.
- In terms of SASA, a school may demand the payment of the school fees from both or any one of a learner's parents.
- One parent may enrol the learner at Graeme College, and, as per the admission form, we will use that address as "domicillium citandi ex executandi". We will send letters or a summons addressed to both parents to that one address. It is the parent who resides at that address responsibility to pass this information on to the other parent
- In terms of section 41(5)(a) of SASA, biological parents or legal guardians may apply for fee exemption. The School adopts and implements the exemptions regulated as gazetted in October 2006.
